SUBJECT: Universal Safety Day Contest Winners

1. Purpose. To announce the winners of the Universal Safety Day poster, essay, and slogan contests.
2. Background. Information Notice 09-72, titled “Universal Safety Day Contests,” was distributed to the Job Corps community on March 4, 2010. This notice announced that the National Office would conduct poster, essay, and slogan contests leading up to Universal Safety Day, which will take place on June 2, 2010.

Many Job Corps centers across the nation submitted posters, essays, and slogans to the Regional Offices for consideration. Each Regional Office selected a winner in each category, which was forwarded to the National Office for the final round of competition. National Office judges had a difficult decision to make, as all entries displayed impressive knowledge, skill, and effort. The following winners in each category were selected by the National Office:

Poster:

Regional Office: Chicago
Job Corps Center: Paul Simon Job Corps Center
Artist: Anthony Jacobs
Theme: “Be The Hero of Your Workplace...Wear Your Personal Protective Equipment (PPE)”

Essay:

Regional Office: Philadelphia
Job Corps Center: Muhlenberg Job Corps Center
Author: Justin Banks
Title: “What Is Safety?”

Slogan:

Regional Office: Boston
Job Corps Center: Iroquois Job Corps Center
Author: Keyana Parsons
Slogan: “Avoid the Worst, Put Safety First”

Each of the above winning entries will be displayed at the U.S. Department of Labor’s Safety Day, to be held on June 9, 2010, in Washington, D.C. Further, the winning submissions will be featured in the July 2010 edition of the Safety Circle newsletter, and displayed during the upcoming National Occupational Safety and Health Conference, scheduled August 31-September 3, 2010, in Charleston, South Carolina.
